Section A (Compulsory)

Item 1

The Kiteezi community in Uganda was recently struck by a tragic incident where several people were killed due to violent clashes over land ownership. The conflict has left families mourning and many displaced. As the community grapples with loss and seeks justice, church leaders are working to mediate and promote reconciliation.

Tasks:

- (a). Discuss how Christian teachings on forgiveness and reconciliation can help resolve conflicts like the one in Kiteezi.
- (b). What role can the church play in promoting peace and justice in such situations?

Item 2

Sarah, a devout Christian, recently discovered that her brother was involved in a gang that engages in robbery and violence. Despite her efforts to dissuade him, he remains deeply involved. Sarah is torn between reporting him to the authorities and protecting her family's reputation.

Tasks:

- (a). How should Sarah approach this situation using Christian principles of accountability and love?
- (b). Discuss the Christian perspective on dealing with family members involved in criminal activities.

Section B (Choose one item from each part)

Part I

Item 3

David, a Christian youth, has become addicted to gambling, which has strained his relationship with his family and led him into debt. His parents have tried various interventions, including counseling and prayer, but David continues to struggle.

Tasks:

- (a). Explain how Christian teachings can help individuals like David overcome addictions.
- (b). What steps can David's family take to support him while upholding Christian values?

Item 4

Joyce, a committed Christian and small business owner, faces competition from a new business that uses unethical means to attract customers. Joyce is tempted to adopt similar practices to survive in the market.

Tasks:

- (a). How should Joyce respond to this temptation according to Christian teachings on honesty and integrity?
- (b). Discuss the challenges Christians face in maintaining ethical standards in business.

Part II

Item 5

Paul, a Christian teacher, was accused of favoritism and accepting bribes to pass students. Although innocent, he faces disciplinary action, and his reputation is at risk. Paul's faith is tested as he navigates the false accusations.

Tasks:

- (a). How can Paul use his Christian faith to deal with false accusations?
- (b). What does the Bible teach about facing persecution and maintaining one's integrity?

Item 6

Martha, a Christian nurse, works in a hospital where she is constantly asked to work overtime without additional pay. She feels exploited and is considering leaving the profession, which she once felt called to.

Tasks:

- (a). Discuss how Martha can find strength in her faith to handle her work challenges.
- (b). What guidance does the Bible offer to those feeling overburdened and unappreciated in their jobs?

END

MARKING GUIDE TO THE TASKS ABOVE

Section A (Compulsory)

Item 1: Kiteezi Conflict

(a) Forgiveness and Reconciliation in Conflict

Christian teachings encourage forgiveness and reconciliation as pathways to healing (Matthew 5:9). The community should prioritize dialogue, peace, and restorative justice to resolve disputes.

(b) Church's Role in Promoting Peace

The church can act as a mediator, providing a platform for dialogue and encouraging forgiveness among conflicting parties. By fostering unity and justice, the church can help rebuild the community.

Item 2: Sarah's Family Dilemma

(a) Accountability and Love in Family Conflicts

Sarah should confront her brother with love and honesty, holding him accountable while offering support to change. The Bible teaches that love must be paired with truth (Ephesians 4:15).

(b) Dealing with Criminal Family Members

Christians are called to uphold justice, even within families (Micah 6:8). Sarah should seek to guide her brother towards repentance and support him in finding legal and ethical ways to change.

Section B (Choose one item from each part)

Part I

Item 3: David's Gambling Addiction

(a) Overcoming Addictions with Christian Teachings

David can overcome his addiction by relying on God's strength, seeking community support, and focusing on God's grace for transformation (1 Corinthians 10:13).

(b) Family Support for Addicts

David's family should provide unwavering support, guiding him towards recovery through prayer, professional help, and consistent encouragement.

Item 4: Joyce's Ethical Dilemma in Business

(a) Maintaining Honesty in Business

Joyce must uphold her Christian values of honesty and integrity, trusting that God rewards those who act justly (Proverbs 16:8). She should resist the temptation
